

- CareerVillage.org: answer questions about your career path for young people in just a few minutes. Answers are posted so others can view them!
- MissingMaps.org (Global): maps the most vulnerable places in the developing world so international and local NGOs, and individuals can use the maps and data to better respond to crises affecting the areas. This could be streets, buildings, lakes, rivers, etc. Tracing these elements is very simple to do and can be done from your laptop in just a few minutes!
 - MapSwipe – MissingMaps mobile app
- MicroMentor: MicroMentor is a free, easy-to-use social network that allows entrepreneurs and volunteer business mentors to connect so they can solve problems and build businesses together. Join a growing community that has already created thousands of mentor-mentee matches and continues to make an impact through the power of mentoring to help small businesses thrive.
- ScholarMatch: Volunteer online for a few hours a month as a virtual college coach! (one year commitment)
- EmpowerWork: Volunteer as a peer work counselor.
- EngineerGirl: Read essays and help inspire future women in engineering! (time sensitive)
- NPower: Use your skills to help nonprofits with tech projects in The Community Corps.
- iMentor: Get matched up with a high school student and mentor them as they transition into college.
- There are over 4,000 virtual opportunities listed on Volunteer Match
- UN Volunteers connects volunteers with organizations working for sustainable human development. All projects are online.
- Search for virtual opportunities on Idealist.org
- Donate your professional skills virtually with Catchafire and Taproot.
- Mentor youth virtually with StudentMentor.
- (USA Volunteers Only): BookShare.Org offers thousands of books to people with reading disabilities. As an online volunteer you can either scan books to be added to the collection, edit books that have been scanned, or describe images.
- Distributed Proofreaders turn public domain books into online books, mostly for Project Gutenberg. Many volunteers work on a book at the same time and proofread each other's work.
- Hire Heroes USA works to create job opportunities for U.S. military veterans and their spouses. The majority of its volunteers participate remotely, as online volunteers, helping with mock interviews, career counseling, job search guidance, guidance for preparing resumes and filling out applications, and marketing programs to veterans and spouses.
- Humanity Road volunteers use Internet and mobile communications technology to collect, verify and route information online during sudden onset disaster. Using the Internet, they provide public safety information as well as directing the public to governmental and aid agencies that are providing assistance for the disaster.
- (USA Volunteers only) Infinite Family, an online mentoring program matching adults in the USA with at-risk, impoverished children in South Africa.

- Learning Ally, formerly Recording for the Blind & Dyslexic. Many audiobooks are created with text-to-speech software that scans text from computer files and uses synthesized human voices to read the text aloud. However, illustrations or figures used throughout the books are not included. Online volunteers type those figure descriptions into the text, enabling students to receive ALL book material, not just the text.
- Librivox is a site that hosts free public domain audiobooks read by volunteers from around the world. Volunteers are needed to read and record chapters of books in all languages. You do not need any prior experience to volunteer for LibriVox, nor do you need to audition or send samples. All you need is your voice, some free software, your computer, and maybe an inexpensive microphone. Everything you need to know is found here.
- Map Rectifier Project by the New York Public Library. This geo-rectification toolkit creates layered digital maps utilizing all of the information available about a certain geography from sources as varied as Google's satellite imagery and fire insurance land maps that are two centuries old. Citizen geo-rectifiers index information that records how many floors a building once had or what a street was named at different points in time, and the resulting layered digital map shows the aggregate results.
- Science Buddies The Ask an Expert Program is a free online forum where students and parents can ask questions about K-12 science projects. Volunteer experts work together to provide personalized assistance with students who have questions about any phase of their project, from coming up with an idea to analyzing data to displaying results at a science fair.
- Sidelines, a USA-based non-profit organization providing international support for women and their families experiencing complicated pregnancies and premature births. Most of this support is provided by online volunteers who have experienced complicated pregnancies and premature births themselves.
- Smithsonian Digital Volunteer program. The Smithsonian seeks to engage the public in making its collections more accessible. "We're working hand-in-hand with digital volunteers to transcribe historic documents and collection records to facilitate research and excite the learning in everyone." Transcription turns handwritten and typed documents into searchable and machine-readable resources, creating an incredibly valuable asset for art, history, literary and scientific researchers across the globe. From high school to graduate studies, transcription allows students to engage with primary source materials, a key part of the learning experience. Transcription preserves these historic documents for future generations.
- Translators Without Borders, for volunteers who want to translate texts for NGOs and nonprofits (note that these kinds of volunteering opportunities are available at many of the other sites listed on this page).
- Trevor Project operates TrevorSpace, an online, social networking community for lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and questioning (LGBTQ) youth ages 13 through 24, and their friends and allies. Online volunteers monitor the TrevorSpace site in an effort to maintain a safe space for young LGBTQ people online. Trainings for online volunteers are provided quarterly. Online volunteers are also needed on a one-time or continual basis to write program content for TrevorSpace.

- Tarjimly is a Facebook bot that connects refugees with volunteer translators in real time. The bot allows the refugee to submit text, photos, and more for immediate translation and the volunteer translator can even reply with an audio file the refugee can play to learn pronunciation or share with the person they are trying to communicate with!